Welcome

Instituto Laboral de la Raza

2947 16th STREET • SAN FRANCISCO, CA 94103

Dear Friends of Labor and Community Supporters:

Welcome to Instituto Laboral de la Raza's 2015 National Labor-Community Awards. Your continued support helps us to provide labor services without fee for California's unorganized working poor and the families that they support.

Our staff at Instituto Laboral de la Raza advocate for workers utilizing California's administrative laws to secure wages, compensation for injuries, and other earned benefits previously denied to them. We have been performing these vital services continually since 1982. It is through the activism of this Nation's Unions that strong laws are written into the books to protect workers and their families. Instituto is the beneficiary of these statutes, and we utilize them on a daily basis to help low income workers, many who are unable to effectively help themselves.

Unionists and friends of Labor are here from all over the country to celebrate the fine work of General President James T. Callahan and the International Union of Operating Engineers. Service Employees International Union and its International President Mary Kay Henry, are also being honored this evening as well as our own Carpenters Local Union No. 22 of San Francisco. We are very thankful to be honoring these great unions and their leadership.

As we strive to protect the labor rights of those less fortunate, it is with great satisfaction that Instituto directs many of these workers to union apprenticeship programs that are offered regularly in this vigorous economy of ours here in the San Francisco Bay Area.

All net proceeds from this Event fund our educational and labor services for California's unorganized working poor. We now look forward to providing you with entertainment, inspiration and a renewed call for the empowerment of all workers. Enjoy your evening.

About the Instituto Laboral de la Raza

For over 30 years, the Instituto Laboral de la Raza has served low income families of California as a nonprofit advocacy and workers' resource center in the Mission District of San Francisco. Most of its clients are unorganized working poor immigrants from Mexico, Central America and Southeast Asia.

The Mission of the Instituto Laboral de la Raza is to provide labor rights education and legal advocacy to obtain unpaid wages and other denied benefits for the unorganized working poor. It works in collaboration with other neighborhood organizations to effectively manage all other critical needs for the economic, health and social welfare of these disadvantaged, disparaged families.

The Goal of the Instituto Laboral de la Raza is to attack the root causes of systemic poverty of people from all social and ethnic backgrounds through programs that stabilize them in their communities, and to build leadership skills so that they may contribute to the economic, social and cultural enrichment of their communities.

Founded in 1982 by Jose E. Medina and community labor leaders, the Instituto, through its community unionism program, also provides workers with information to assist them to seek employment opportunities through Union hiring halls as well as to provide them the means to organize in their workplaces. The Instituto Laboral de la Raza has both community activists and labor leaders that sit on its Board of Directors. Its Advisory Board includes men and women from Organized Labor, from the legal and religious community, as well as grassroots activists.

Instituto Laboral de la Raza is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit corporation. It does not charge for any of its services. It is funded by donations, grants and sponsorship by Unions and select businesses. It produces an annual fundraising Labor Community Award Dinner that is the largest in the U.S. Donations are tax deductible in accordance with section 170 of the Internal Revenue Code.

JAMES T. CALLAHAN

General President

International Union of Operating Engineers

International Labor Leadership Award

JAMES T. CALLAHAN is the General President of the International Union of Operating Engineers, a diversified trade union that represents 400,000 operating engineers working as heavy equipment operators, mechanics and surveyors in the construction industry, and stationary engineers, who work in operations and maintenance in building and industrial complexes. IUOE also represents nurses and other health industry workers, public employees in a wide variety of occupations, and a number of job classifications in the petrochemical industry.

He was elected to a full term as General President at the 38th General Convention on April 28, 2013 after fulfilling the term of retired General President Vincent J. Giblin.

Callahan, a 33-year member and third generation operating engineer, moved up the union's ranks from member to Shop Steward, Foreman, Trustee, and Business Representative to ultimately lead Local 15 in New York City as its 4th President and Business Manager in 2003.

Callahan began his career as an operating engineer in 1980. Proficient in all mechanical aspects of maintenance and repair, he was initiated as a shop mechanic in Local 15C. By 1993, he had worked his way up to maintenance foreman and was an integral part of the team that worked on the World Trade Center site in the aftermath of the terrorist bombing of the parking garage that killed and injured dozens of people.

Eight years later, as a local union Business Agent, Callahan found himself back at the World Trade Center. This time, he was one of the many operating engineers who responded immediately to the September 11 tragedy and he stayed on to work through the entire recovery effort at Ground Zero.

Callahan was elected to the AFL-CIO Executive Board in March 2012 and also serves on the AFL-CIO Executive Committee. In addition, he has been an Executive Board member of the New York City Building and Construction Trades Council, the New York City Central Labor Council, and the New York State AFL-CIO.

He and his wife, Fran, are the proud parents of three sons, James, Ian and Patrick.

About IUOE

The International Union of Operating Engineers (IUOE) is a progressive, diversified trade union that primarily represents operating engineers, who work as heavy equipment operators, mechanics, and surveyors in the construction industry, and stationary engineers, who work in operations and maintenance in building and industrial complexes, and in the service industries. IUOE also represents nurses and other health industry workers, a significant number of public employees engaged in a wide variety of occupations, as well as a number of job classifications in the petrochemical industry.

This representation is the core of IUOE's mission. From ensuring protections of prevailing wages on public projects, to alleviating healthcare costs through coalition building, to improving our contractors' competitiveness, IUOE has and will continue to be tirelessly dedicated to the common interests of its members.

Founded in 1896, IUOE today has approximately 400,000 members in 123 local unions throughout the United States and Canada. IUOE is the 10th largest union in the AFL-CIO. Over 100 state-of-the-art training and apprenticeship programs ensure that IUOE members are the safest, most productive, and highly skilled craft workers.

MARY KAY HENRY

International President

Service Employees International Union

International Labor Leadership Award

Mary Kay Henry serves as International President of the Service Employees International Union (SEIU), which unites 2 million workers in healthcare, public and property services.

Henry has devoted her life to helping North America's workers form unions and strengthen their voice at work about the quality of the goods and services they provide, and the quality of care they are able to deliver.

The daughter of a salesman and a teacher, Henry is the eldest daughter of 10. Henry grew up in a suburb of Detroit at a time when working people had a strong union voice that they used to build the middle class. Her childhood experiences in Detroit and her deep faith as a Roman Catholic instilled in her a deep commitment to opening the doors to opportunity for everyone and not just the few at the top.

Since joining SEIU's staff in 1979, Henry has stood side by side with nursing home workers in Fresno, Calif., who fought for time to treat seniors with the dignity and respect they deserve, and suburban janitors in the Twin Cities, who wanted full-time work to support their families on a living wage. She has also worked with California state employees who sought to cut out waste and inefficiency from government, and registered nurses in Seattle, who wanted a partnership with management to improve the cost and quality of care throughout the state.

Henry was elected to SEIU's International Executive Board in 1996 and as an International Executive Vice President in 2004. In her role as International Executive Vice President, Henry served as the union's chief healthcare strategist and led efforts to build a stronger voice for healthcare workers and enact historic healthcare reforms. More than a million healthcare workers nationwide, including registered nurses, technicians, doctors, and hospital and clinic workers are now united in SEIU Healthcare.

In 2010, Henry was unanimously elected International President and became the first woman to lead SEIU. Under her leadership, SEIU members have joined together on the job to win better wages and benefits and build better communities; while fighting for a more just society and an economy that works for all of people, not just corporations and the wealthy. Henry's commitment to confront income inequality and social injustice is embodied in the historic "Fight for 15" movement and in SEIU's continued dedication to holding politicians accountable to working families, and achieving justice for immigrants and communities across our country.

CARPENTERS LOCAL UNION 22 OF THE UNITED
OF CARPENTERS AND
JOINERS OF AMERICA

Bay Area Leadership Award

In 1882 Carpenters Local Union 22 became the first West Coast labor organization to receive a charter from the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, a new international union founded in Chicago the preceding year. The international, which seven years later had its name adjusted to the now familiar United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America (UBCJ) would go on to achieve great prominence as one of the largest and most important labor unions in the United States.

By 1911, Local 22's most famous historical leader Patrick Henry McCarthy was the mayor of San Francisco. The city was arguably the strongest union town in the country, and Local 22 and P.H. McCarthy were at the forefront of an important movement. While McCarthy was mayor, he was also president of the powerful San Francisco Building Trades Council (BTC). As BTC president McCarthy centralized control over the various local trade unions, installed the union standard in the construction industry and managed to enforce labor peace by dictating wages and working conditions to the city's contractors.

P.H. McCarthy's springboard to regional power had been Local 22, the largest building trade union in the West with a membership of 2,000 craftspeople. Widely known as "Big 22", the Local enjoyed a flourishing reputation for the wages and conditions standards it had set. Mayor McCarthy, in a 1911 campaign statement would refer to the unionized city he presided over as "labor's stronghold".

Various organizations of San Francisco carpenters had experienced some success between 1849 and 1881, but their strength and ability to survive would never match the future success of Local 22. While Local 22 did attain great stature during McCarthy's BTC reign from the late 1890s through 1921, the Local would temporarily lose much of its influence and vigor when employers brought a powerful anti-union campaign to San Francisco in the early 1920s.

Local 22 would continue to survive and represent its members as well as it could until organized labor's overall position improved dramatically in Northern California following the longshoremen's and seamen's victory in the great San Francisco general strike of 1934. Twice during the 20th century Local 22 even briefly lost its charter. However, through hard work and vigilance the Local always sustained its essential identity with impressive dignity and resiliency no matter how adverse the conditions.

Despite two world wars, two major earthquakes, numerous economic downturns, the great depression, the employer open shop onslaught of the 1920s, a disastrous strike of 1926, another epic battle with the employers in 1952 and various institutional reorganizations within the UBCJ, Local 22 has arrived in the 21st century solidly intact which serves as testament to the determination and sacrifice of our members.

Joe O'Sullivan, a native of County Kerry, Ireland: Elected to Business Agent in 1938 and elected to Financial Secretary in 1954. He retained both positions until his retirement in 1977. He remains one of the best known labor figures in the Bay Area.

Local 22's most famous historic leader Patrick Henry McCarthy. He served as Local 22 President during the late 1880's and became the first American labor leader to be elected mayor of a major American city (San Francisco) serving from 1910 - 1912.

Honoree of Instituto's 2007 La Raza Congressional Leadership Award

February 7, 2015

2015 National Labor-Community Awards
Instituto Laboral de la Raza
Marriott Marquis
San Francisco

Dear Friends,

Please accept my warm greetings as you come together to celebrate Instituto Laboral de la Raza's National Labor-Community Awards. This is a wonderful opportunity to honor three distinguished labor leaders — James T. Callahan, Mary Kay Henry, and Carpenters Local 22. Tonight's honorees have fought long and hard for social and economic justice and a better future for American workers and their families and have been an inspiration to and a vital part of our nation's labor community.

We know that a strong labor movement is the backbone of a strong American economy and we thank Instituto Laboral de la Raza for your leadership in protecting workers' rights and meeting the needs of underserved working families.

I join my constituents and all those in the San Francisco Bay Area in saluting Instituto Laboral de la Raza and our brothers and sisters from across America who come together in solidarity. Please know that I will continue to work in the Congress to create jobs, strengthen the middle class and build an economy that brings justice and economic opportunity to all America's working men and women.

Warm regards,

Nancy Pelosi

would like to congratulate our International President, Mary Kay Henry, and all of this evening's honorees on being recognized for their dedication to bringing dignity and justice to the lives of working families

SEIU United Long Term Care Workers (ULTCW) is one of California's largest women's organizations and the leading long term care organization dedicated to providing and protecting quality care for some of our most vulnerable residents. SEIU ULTCW represents 180,000 in-home care providers and nursing home workers throughout California, making it the largest union of long term caregivers in California and the second largest SEIU Local in the nation.
